

Anita Pichler, assistant professor

Faculty of Food Technology Osijek

F. Kuhača 20

31 000 Osijek

Scientific Personal Identification Number: 251543

e-mail: anita.pichler@ptfos.hr

CURRICULUM VITAE

Dr Anita Pichler was born in Osijek in 1974, graduated Food technology at the University of Osijek Faculty of Food Technology in 2001, and obtained PhD in Food Engineering at the University of Osijek in 2011. The title of dissertation was "Influence of different additives and storage on quality, rheological and thermophysical properties of raspberry cream filling" where among other things she investigated trehalose positive effect on rheological properties, aroma, colour degradation and retention of anthocyanins and polyphenols in samples. In 2012 she was promoted to Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Food Technology, University of Osijek.

She has been a participant in several research projects: Improvement of production processes of high quality food and drinks (2002-2005), Improvement of production processes of food (2006-2010), Development of new modified starches and their application in food industry (2010-2013) funded by the Ministry of Science, Education and Sports.

She was involved in research on the technological project "Development and application of membrane filter in food industry (2002-2004).

She participates in international project Innowine (2011-).

She teaches in several courses: Processes in Food Industry, Technology of Plant-Based Raw Materials II, Wine Technology, Chemistry and Wine Technology, Food Preservation, Membrane Processes.

In 2005 she spent one month on the University in Bratislava, Slovakia, within the network for exchange of students and professors CEEPUS.

As author and co-author she published four (4) papers in journal indexed in SCI, fourteen (14) original scientific papers and one (1) review paper in journal indexed CAB and six (6) scientific papers in the proceedings of meetings with international review. She participated at twelve (12) international conferences with eighteen (18) posters.